Herman@s Connection to College (C2C)

Herman@s Connection to College (C2C) establishes a pipeline from middle school to college with the purpose of providing holistic support for Latinx youth. Herman@s C2C aims to create a safe space for students and their families in an educational setting. Through the connection of an academic counselor, family engagement, resources, and mentorship, Herman@s C2C provides wrap around services to our students to close the achievement gap.

How does Herman@s C2C help students?

- Provides wrap around support services to students in middle school at Parkway Heights through their senior year at South San Francisco high school.
- Provides middle school students the opportunity to attend workshops, conferences, and university visits.
- Prepares high school students to transition into college. Sophomores at South San Francisco High School concurrently enroll at Skyline College and take pre determined coursework in various General Education subjects until they are seniors.
- Arranges transportation to university visits, conferences, and workshops for high school students.
- Provides students with free tuition.
- Allows students to attain a semester's worth of college units while they are in high school
- Provides students with direct linkage to support and services at Skyline College, such as the Puente Project, TRIO, EOPS, transfer center, skyline promise, and summer scholars.

Who might be a good fit for the Herman@s C2C program?

A potential Herman@s C2C candidate (if starting in middle school):

- Teachers/counselors select students
